Initial Build Notes:

Home Page

- Be careful of the resolution of the background! Right now it looks sorta pixelated, but I do like the more playful, drawn aspect of this background more than the cluttered picture
- The subtitle is hard to read in the yellow text. I think this subtitle could also be a more playful typeface, maybe something very very rounded on the edges of the letters
- The title of the website can just be a banner with the Tamagotchi logo
- The navigation links could be a sidebar on the left

Design of other pages

- I like the soft yellow! It feels very friendly. Just make sure the yellows match on the border of the other elements
- The pages could use more pictures, but I like how you're styling the border of the pictures.
- I would like to see some of the characters around the pages too, I think that might make it even more playful.
- I like the choice of sans serif of the body text
